To all of our Ohio Legionnaires,

Before I introduce myself to you, I want to begin by personally thanking Suzette Heller for her example to us all for the last ten years. As our outgoing Adjutant, she has defined selfless service to The American Legion Department of Ohio and has advanced our vision and core values in an exemplary way. Job well done, Suzette! We wish you all the best in your future endeavors.

My name is Eric Hall, and I am humbled and honored to be selected as the next American Legion Department of Ohio Adjutant. When I retired from a 20-year career in the United States Navy which ended in 2007, I found myself in a position many of you probably can relate to. In that new phase of life as a veteran, I had a great many experiences: I started, ran, and then sold a business; I went back to school and completed my degree at Cleveland State University; and most recently, I started my second career with the Legion as a Department Service Officer here in Ohio.

We all know that experience in and with the military requires discipline, leadership, and training abilities. These create in us both the fortitude and the capacity to initiate and complete complex tasks on time and under budget. Both in and after my time in the Navy, I have both worked with and have led men and women as we together learned to be task-oriented and adaptable to changing priorities. I have found from my own experience and from observing colleagues that self-improvement and continuing education produce maximum productivity in all of us. As a business owner, I know how stressful situations may not be avoidable but that they can be managed to produce effective solutions and long-term rapport with our client base.

As my career has taken shape, I have learned these lessons and many other lessons, and I am aware that I will be working with others who have learned a great deal as well. As the American Legion Department of Ohio Adjutant, you will experience my leadership through both my consistent example and my clear direction. I am committed to supporting, evolving, and growing the goals and mission of The American Legion Department of Ohio.

I am proud to serve all veterans and most of all Ohio Legionnaires! I look forward to working for and with you all.

Sincerely,

Eric J. Hall

The American Legion Department of Ohio Adjutant
